OK so here is what we have.

- Livelihood projects (a total of 6) pre-2019 included Hammer Mills, Maize Shellers and Treadle Pumps.
- Livelihood projects (a total of 278) that BCP implemented post-2019 include Conservation Farming, Tillage Service Providers, In-Community Agents (input supply), Crop Aggregators (market access/links), Horticulture Farming, Beekeeping, Tuck Shops, Goat Farming, Chicken Farming, Piggeries and Village Banking. These areas were and are the focus points for community capacity building, Technical and business capacity building. These are new initiatives that have stemmed from certain BCP staff and managers with no input from USAID.
- Community development projects - schools, boreholes, clinics, housing etc - 35 completed under USAID and 236 since the close of the project.

We have this information at VAG level, however as we are still under CCB verification we are not yet able to share the data. As I mentioned earlier, once we are verified then this data will be available in the public-ready CCB Report. When we were discussing this assessment we had expected to have been verified by now, but for reasons beyond our own control, that verification will now in all likelihood happen around August.

This needs the usual context - the USAID project and support from USAID obviously represented a business start-up, which it was successful in doing - an all too rare outcome from my own 24 years working in the development industry. Most donor seed capital, as I would reference it, rarely leads (if at all) to a full blown private for-profit entity, standing on its own two without further donor support. There are a couple of common examples in Zambia of organisations in Zambia that are touted as private sector companies, but are still heavily subsidised in one form or another by various donors. If that donor support fell off, so would they.

Post-2019, has been BCP, and reflects our aim, and in-house expertise and experience in developing and providing more economic opportunities and benefits to those communities and partners who now work with us.

I do hope the final assessment reflects this pre and post-division.

If it helps, I would be happy jumping on a call to discuss further.

Best - Mike

Good morning - we are looking at your queries now.

Just one thing, if the information related to the shape files is not listed on the Verra website it means it is not ready for public consumption until we get our credits verified, which will probably not happen until late Q3.

Hello Nic and Mike,

We are well underway with data collection now, with nearly a third of our sampled households and headpersons surveyed. As Catherine mentioned a few weeks ago, please let the BCP staff know about the data collection for their awareness.

I also have a couple of requests for BCP:

- Do you have a shapefile for the 2021 and 2022 expansion areas? We couldn't find the file with these areas on the Verra site. See the map below.
- Could you please confirm if the VAGs with no information provided truly received no interventions or benefits from the USAID project (2014-2019)? Please see the spreadsheet attached that summarizes the intervention information that you previously provided to us, at the VAG level. We primarily received information regarding the use of conservation funds, though we'd also like to know about capacity building, livelihoods activities, or other interventions conducted in/benefits provided to these areas under the project.
 - Additionally, do you have any VAG level information about activities that took place after the USAID project (post-2019)? We are trying to identify comparison sites so it is important for us to know which areas are now a part of the LPCF project, even if they weren't part of the original project under USAID.

Best,

Emily

Dear Nic,

RuralNet is out in Eastern Province for the data collection. I wish to request that you let the BCP field staff know about the data collection exercise - more for their situational awareness. Forestry dept at Provincial Office in Chipata requested Rural net to get permission from BCP for the data collection. Regards. Catherine.

Good evening, Mike,

I just wanted to follow up again to see if your staff has any more information about the CFP implementation. We were delayed a bit over the past few months, so we are now planning to start our endline data collection around the week of March 25, with a couple of us traveling to Zambia to oversee the training & pilot for the two weeks prior.

Best,

Emily

Good day Emily and Happy New Year to you too -

I hope all is well. Staff have finally made their way back, and we'll look into getting responses to your queries with those who were around for the USAID period.

A call might be useful, but let me see what we can do and take it from there.

Best - Mike

Subject: Zambia CFP BCP Call Follow-up

Good morning, Michael,

Thank you again for meeting with us this week. Please see the attached Feasibility Assessment that informed the design of our endline evaluation for Zambia CFP, as requested.

We also have the following questions regarding BCP's implementation in response to the spreadsheet shared with us on Monday:

- According to the excel file provided, there were no interventions in Msoro (initially a treatment area) or Masemphangwe (initially a control area) chiefdoms. We wanted to confirm that this was the case, and see if BCP is able to share any information about why treatment might not have happened in Msoro as initially planned.
 - Similarly for Nyalungwe and Mwanya chiefdoms (initially control areas), the excel file provides information on interventions they received. We wanted to see if BCP is able to share any information about why treatment was expanded to these areas, as it was not initially planned.
- All intervention information provided in the excel file seems to be at the chiefdom/CRB level (i.e., it is the same for all villages in a chiefdom), rather than at lower levels of the VAGs or villages. However, based on the notes, it seems like some interventions did indeed take place in more specific, smaller geographic locations. For example, in Luembe chiefdom, the interventions include: "Construction of teachers houses in Chinambi, Ngambwa, Ambo, Mushalila & Rehab at Chikwasha & Rehabilitation of 1*2 Classroom block, Mbilisao". Can more information be provided about these locations? Are these village names, or something else? Same question applies throughout the rest of the interventions listed.
- All the information provided seems to be for projects implemented from conservation funds. Are you able to share implementation details regarding any other activities: livelihood improvement activities, training and capacity building, other disbursements of conservations funds?

We understand that implementation ended quite a while ago, before you joined BCP, and that there are limited personnel and project documents remaining from that time, so you may not be able to answer all our questions. Any insight you and your team could provide is greatly appreciated, and we're happy to set up a call again sometime in January to discuss.

Many thanks,

Emily

Hi Michael,

Christina and I are happy to join a call to answer questions regarding the information request for the CFP Endline Evaluation, noting that we are both based in the US in UTC -5:00. However, it appears that Catherine is out of the office right now and I'm not sure when she will be back, and I would suggest coordinating a time that until she or another contact at USAID is available to join us.

Best,

Emily
